Reset Forward Contract (ReFC).

What is a ReFC?

A ReFC is an agreement with Westpac that provides protection against unfavourable exchange rate movements by setting a Contract Rate at which you can exchange one currency for another. At the same time it provides you with some ability to participate in any favourable exchange rate movements as long as the pre-agreed Trigger Level is not reached during the nominated Trigger Period.

A ReFC may be useful in managing the currency risk associated with exporting or importing goods denominated in foreign currency, investing or borrowing overseas, repatriating profits, converting foreign currency denominated dividends, or settling other foreign currency contractual arrangements.

How do ReFCs work?

When you enter into a ReFC, you nominate the two currencies to be exchanged. These currencies are known as the Currency Pair and must be acceptable to Westpac.

We agree to a Contract Rate, a Trigger Level, a Trigger Period and a Reset Rate. Although you will have input into the setting of these rates, the rates selected must achieve a Zero Cost Structure. (See "What are the costs?" on page 6). Not all selections will achieve a Zero Cost Structure and we will help you to calculate the rates needed to do so.

The Contract Rate is your initial level of exchange rate protection. The Trigger Level is the nominated foreign exchange rate which, if reached during the Trigger Period, triggers your obligation to exchange the Currency Pair at the Reset Rate on the Maturity Date. Depending on the combination of Contract Rate, Trigger Level and Trigger Period, the Reset Rate may be more favourable to you than the Contract Rate or less favourable.

If the Trigger Level is not reached during the Trigger Period you can benefit from any favourable exchange rate movements that occur. The extent of this benefit will depend on where the Market Foreign Exchange Rate is at the Cut-Off Time.

On the Maturity Date the possible outcomes under a ReFC are:

- if the Global Foreign Exchange Rate does not reach the Trigger Level at any time during the Trigger Period, and the Market Foreign Exchange Rate at the Cut-Off Time is the same as or less favourable to you than the Contract Rate, the Currency Pair must be exchanged with Westpac at the Contract Rate.
- if the Global Foreign Exchange Rate does not reach the Trigger Level at any time during the Trigger Period and the Market Foreign Exchange Rate at the Cut-Off Time is more favourable to you than the Contract Rate, you have no obligation to exchange your currency. You can choose to separately exchange your currency at the prevailing Market Foreign Exchange Rate if you wish to do so.
- if the Global Foreign Exchange Rate reaches the Trigger Level at any time during the Trigger Period, the Currency Pair must be exchanged with Westpac at the Reset Rate.

How do we monitor the exchange rate?

We will monitor the relevant foreign exchange markets to determine whether the Global Foreign Exchange Rate reaches the Trigger Level during the Trigger Period. This may occur at any time during the Trigger Period. We will advise you if it does as soon as practicable.

We will also monitor the relevant foreign exchange markets to determine your obligations as at the Cut-Off Time. Once again, we will advise you of the outcomes as soon as practicable.

The Cut-Off Time and Maturity Date will be specified in the Confirmation that outlines the commercial terms of the transaction.

Are there any Westpac credit requirements before dealing?

Before entering into a ReFC, Westpac will assess your financial position to determine whether or not your situation satisfies our normal credit requirements. Westpac will advise you of the outcome of its review as soon as possible.

If your application is successful, you will need to sign Westpac's standard finance documentation. This documentation sets out the terms of the credit approval and other matters relevant to your application.

What happens at maturity?

Depending on the terms of your ReFC, on the Maturity Date you may need to provide Westpac with either foreign currency or Australian dollars (AUD). You can provide foreign currency either by telegraphic transfer or by transferring funds from a foreign currency account/deposit. You must provide AUD in Clear Funds. On receipt of the funds, Westpac will deposit amounts owing to you into a Westpac bank account (in your name), denominated in the relevant currency. Alternative arrangements can be made with Westpac's agreement.

Can I terminate a ReFC before maturity?

You may ask us to terminate a ReFC at any time up to the Cut-Off Time. We will then provide you with a termination quote. There will be a cost or gain arising as a result of termination. If you accept the termination quote, we will terminate the ReFC.

Our quote will incorporate the same variables used when pricing the original ReFC. These will be adjusted for the prevailing conditions in respect of the remaining term of the ReFC. We will also need to consider the cost of reversing or offsetting your original transaction. When doing this we take into account the current market rates that apply to any offsetting transactions.

Costs, Benefits and Risks.

What are the costs?

There are no up-front out of pocket costs with a ReFC. The Contract Rate, Trigger Level, Trigger Period and Reset Rate will be set at particular levels in order to create a Zero Cost Structure. When determining these rates, Westpac takes several factors into account including:

- the size and term of the ReFC;
- Global Foreign Exchange Rates;
- market volatility; and
- market interest rates of the countries of the Currency Pair.

While there are no up-front costs with ReFCs, Westpac still derives a financial benefit by incorporating a margin into the Contract Rate, Trigger Level and the Reset Rate. This means that these rates will be different to the market rates prevailing at that time. In effect you pay for the ReFC by accepting the Contract Rate, the Trigger Level and the Reset Rate agreed with Westpac.

Key Benefits.

Protection

ReFCs provide you with protection against unfavourable foreign exchange movements between the time you enter into a ReFC and the Cut-Off Time. This can assist you in managing your foreign currency exposures. On the Maturity Date, you will always know your worst case outcome; i.e. you will be protected for the Contract Amount at the Contract Rate if the Trigger Level is not reached during the Trigger Period or protected at the Reset Rate if it is reached.

Coverage

ReFCs are available for a wide range of currencies. Please contact us to confirm your desired currency is covered. Our contact details are set out on page 14.

Participation in favourable exchange rate movements

A ReFC provides you with the ability to participate in favourable exchange rate movements that may occur provided the nominated Trigger Level is not reached during the Trigger Period.

Flexibility

ReFCs are flexible. Key variables, including the Contract Rate, Trigger Level and the Trigger Period can be tailored to meet your particular needs.

Key Risks.

Variation / Early termination

Terminations or variations to your ReFC may result in a cost to you – see the section titled “Can I terminate a ReFC before maturity?” on page 5 for more information.

No cooling off period

There is no cooling off period. This means that, in most circumstances, once you enter into a ReFC, you cannot terminate or vary the ReFC without our consent. See “Variation / Early termination” section above.

Opportunity loss

You will not receive the benefit of favourable exchange rate movement between the time you enter into a ReFC and the Cut-Off Time if the Trigger Level is reached during the Trigger Period. Where the Trigger Level is reached you are obliged to transact the Contract Amount at the Reset Rate on the Maturity Date, which may be less favourable than the Contract Rate.

The rate achieved with a ReFC, being either the Contract Rate or the Reset Rate, may not be as favourable as the rate you could have achieved with a forward foreign exchange contract or if you had not entered into any contract at all.

Counterparty and operational risk

As is the case with most financial markets products we enter into, Westpac has performance obligations under a ReFC. If we are unable to perform our obligations under your ReFC, you may be exposed to Market Foreign Exchange Rate fluctuations as if you had not entered into a ReFC.

Our ability to fulfil our obligations is linked to our financial wellbeing and to the effectiveness of our internal systems, processes and procedures. The first type of risk (our financial wellbeing) is commonly referred to as credit or counterparty risk. The second type of risk (the effectiveness of our internal systems, processes and procedures) is commonly referred to as operational risk.

You must make your own assessment of our ability to meet our obligations. However, as a regulated Australian bank we are subject to prudential regulation which is intended to reduce the risk of us failing to perform our obligations.

Further information about Westpac, including copies of our recent financial statements, is available on our website at www.westpac.com.au.

Currency restrictions

Delivery of some currencies may be governed by, or subject to certain legal and regulatory requirements and obligations. It is your responsibility to ensure that these laws and regulations are complied with and we suggest you seek and obtain your own independent expert advice in relation to such matters.

Use of agent and correspondent banks

To deliver some currencies (other than AUD), we may use agents and correspondent banks. We will use reasonable care in the selection of such agents and correspondent banks.

If the agent or correspondent bank fails to deliver the required currency when due, we will work with the agent or correspondent bank to effect delivery. If after such action delivery cannot be made, we will promptly return your funds or make alternative arrangements with you.

To the extent allowed by law, Westpac will not be liable for any direct or indirect losses, claims, actions or expenses incurred by you as a result of the failure by an agent or correspondent bank to deliver the required currency.

Documentation and Confirmation.

What documentation is required?

Master dealing agreement.

You will usually need to sign a master dealing agreement if you want to enter into a ReFC. This will either be an agreement with us or an industry standard master dealing agreement. The industry standard master dealing agreements that we commonly use are:

- an Australian Financial Markets Association Master Agreement for Foreign Currency Transactions. This is a simple agreement and is used only for foreign exchange transactions;
- an International Swaps and Derivatives Association Master Agreement. This is a more complicated agreement and is generally used where a person intends to enter into a variety of other derivative transactions as well as foreign exchange transactions.

We will advise you which of these you will need to sign.

Each of the above master dealing agreements governs the dealing relationship between you and us and sets out the terms and conditions that will apply to all transactions that we enter into with you that are covered by the agreement. In particular, they document the situations where those transactions can be terminated and the way the amount to be paid following termination is calculated.

You will be provided with a copy of the relevant master dealing agreement and we strongly recommend that you fully consider its terms before signing. You should obtain independent advice if you do not understand any aspect of the document.

Documentation for certain restricted currencies

Other documentation may be required for ReFCs involving certain currencies. Where possible, we will attempt to inform you of any specific requirements; however you are responsible for complying with any legal or regulatory obligations. We suggest that you seek and obtain your own independent, expert advice in relation to such matters.

Email or facsimile authority and indemnity

If you would like to provide us with email or facsimile instructions in relation to ReFCs, we may require you to complete an email or facsimile authority and indemnity. The purpose of the email or facsimile authority and indemnity is to protect us against the consequences of acting upon instructions which may not represent your genuine wishes, but which appear to us to be genuine.

Other documentation

You may be requested to complete additional documentation before you enter into a ReFC, depending on the outcome of Westpac's assessment of your creditworthiness. We will inform you if any further documentation is required at that time.

What about Confirmations?

The commercial terms of a particular ReFC will be agreed at the time of dealing. This may occur over the phone or electronically. Once we reach an agreement, both you and Westpac are bound by the terms of the ReFC.

Shortly after entering into a ReFC, Westpac will send you a Confirmation outlining the commercial terms of the transaction. You will need to sign this Confirmation and return it to Westpac. This Confirmation evidences the transaction entered into under your master agreement with us.

This Confirmation will include:

- the Contract Amount;
- the Contract Rate;
- the Maturity Date;
- the Cut-Off Time;
- the Trigger Level;
- the Trigger Period; and
- the Reset Rate.

It is extremely important that you check the Confirmation to make sure that it accurately records the terms of the transaction. If there is a discrepancy between your understanding and the Confirmation, you will need to raise it with your Westpac representative as a matter of urgency.

Examples.

The examples below are illustrative only and use rates and figures selected to demonstrate how the product works. In order to assess the merits of any ReFC, you would need to use the actual rates and figures quoted to you at the time. Note that the calculations below include rounding of decimal places.

Scenario 1 - Foreign Currency Payment.

You are an Australian based importer due to pay 100,000 United States dollars (USD) in three months' time for goods bought overseas. At that time, you need to convert your AUD into USD.

Assume the current Market Foreign Exchange Rate is 0.8900 and the three-month Forward Exchange Rate is 0.8850.

If I do nothing, what exchange rate risks do I face?

If you do nothing, the amount of AUD you will need in three months' time to obtain the USD you are due to pay will depend on the Market Foreign Exchange Rate applicable at that time.

If the AUD/USD exchange rate goes up, the USD will become less valuable and as a consequence, you will need less AUD when it is time to obtain the USD. Assume in this example that the AUD/USD Market Foreign Exchange Rate rises to 0.9400, then you will pay:

AUD 106,382.98
(= USD 100,000 / 0.9400)

If the AUD/USD Market Foreign Exchange Rate goes down, the opposite occurs and you will need more AUD. Assume the AUD/USD Market Foreign Exchange Rate falls to 0.8400, then you will pay:

AUD 119,047.62
(= USD 100,000 / 0.8400)

How will a ReFC change this?

Assume that you are unsure about the direction of the AUD against the USD and wish to protect yourself against the AUD depreciating against the USD, but also have the potential to participate in any favourable movements in the AUD.

You enter into a ReFC to buy USD 100,000 with AUD in three months' time and set the Contract Rate at 0.8750. You also set the Trigger Level at 0.9250 and specify the Trigger Period to be the full term of the contract (i.e. the period between the trade date and the Maturity Date). Based on these details Westpac determines the Reset Rate to be 0.8850.

The possible outcomes on the Maturity Date are:

- a) if the Trigger Level has not been reached at any time during the Trigger Period and the Market Foreign Exchange Rate is the same as or below the 0.8750 Contract Rate at the Cut-Off Time, you must exchange your AUD at the Contract Rate. You will pay:
- AUD 114,285.71
(= USD 100,000 / 0.8750)
- b) if the Trigger Level has not been reached during the Trigger Period and the Market Foreign Exchange Rate is above the 0.8750 Contract Rate, you have no obligation to exchange your AUD under the ReFC. However, you may choose to separately exchange your AUD at the Market Foreign Exchange Rate. For example, if you choose to do this and the AUD/USD Market Foreign Exchange Rate at the time is 0.9150 you will pay:
- AUD 109,289.62
(= USD 100,000 / 0.9150)

- c) if the Trigger Level has been reached at any time during the Trigger Period, you must exchange your AUD at the Reset Rate of 0.8850. You will pay:

AUD 112,994.35
(= USD 100,000 / 0.8850)

How can I change the range of outcomes?

You can change the range of possible outcomes by changing the Contract Rate, the Trigger Level and as a result the corresponding Reset Rate. Once the Contract Rate, the Trigger Level, the Trigger Period and the Reset Rate are agreed the possible outcomes on the Maturity Date can be determined.

When agreeing the details of your ReFC you need to consider that:

- the Contract Rate corresponds to the maximum amount of AUD you will pay to meet your USD obligation if the Trigger Level is not reached during the Trigger Period.
- if the Trigger Level is reached during the Trigger Period you must exchange your AUD at the Reset Rate. Depending on how your ReFC is structured, the Reset Rate may be more or less favourable than your Contract Rate. If your Reset Rate is less favourable, that corresponds to the maximum amount of AUD you will pay to meet your USD obligation. The Contract Rate and/or the Reset Rate will always be set below the Forward Exchange Rate available to you on the trade date.
- where the Trigger Period finishes at the Cut-Off Time, the most favourable exchange rate you can possibly transact at is just under the Trigger Level. If the Trigger Level is reached during the Trigger Period you are obliged to transact at the Reset Rate; if it is not reached you can choose to transact at the prevailing Market Foreign Exchange Rate at maturity.
- where the Trigger Period does not finish at the Cut-Off Time of the ReFC (that is, it finishes before the Cut-Off Time) your ability to benefit from favourable exchange rate movements at the Cut-Off Time will not be capped. This is because the Global Foreign Exchange Rate at the Cut-Off Time may be higher than the Trigger Level but because this occurs outside of the Trigger Period it does not affect your obligations under the ReFC. However, because of the Zero Cost Structure, where your Trigger Period finishes before the Cut-Off Time, the combination of your Trigger Level, Contract Rate and Reset Rate will be less favourable to you overall.
- a higher Contract Rate will reduce your exposure to a falling AUD/USD exchange rate. However, because of the Zero Cost Structure, for a given Trigger Period, the Trigger Level and/or the Reset Rate will be lower. A lower Trigger Level will increase the likelihood of the Trigger Level being reached and will reduce the extent to which you can benefit from any favourable exchange rate movements that may occur.
- a lower Contract Rate will increase your exposure to a falling AUD/USD exchange rate. However, because of the Zero Cost Structure, for a given Trigger Period, the Trigger Level and/or the Reset Rate will be higher. A higher Trigger Level will increase the likelihood of the Trigger Level being reached and will increase the extent to which you can benefit from any favourable exchange rate movements that may occur.

Scenario 2 - Foreign Currency Receipt.

You are an Australian based exporter due to receive 100,000 United States dollars (USD) in three months' time for goods sold overseas. At that time, you need to convert the USD you will receive into AUD.

Assume the Market Foreign Exchange Rate is 0.8900 and the three-month Forward Exchange Rate is 0.8850.

If I do nothing, what exchange rate risks do I face?

If you do nothing, the amount of AUD you will receive in three months' time for your USD will depend on the Market Foreign Exchange Rate applicable at that time.

If the AUD/USD exchange rate goes up, the USD will become less valuable and as a consequence, you will receive less AUD when it is time to exchange the USD. Assume in this example that the AUD/USD Market Foreign Exchange Rate rises to 0.9400, then you will receive:

AUD 106,382.98
(= USD 100,000 / 0.9400)

If the AUD/USD Market Foreign Exchange Rate goes down, the opposite occurs and you will receive more AUD. Assume the AUD/USD Market Foreign Exchange Rate falls to 0.8400, then you will receive:

AUD 119,047.62
(= USD 100,000 / 0.8400)

How will a ReFC change this?

Assume that you are unsure about the direction of the AUD against the USD and wish to protect yourself against the AUD appreciating against the USD, but also have the potential to participate in any favourable movements in the AUD.

You enter into a ReFC to sell USD 100,000 for AUD in three months' time and set the Contract Rate at 0.8950. You also set the Trigger Level at 0.8350 and specify the Trigger period to be the last month of the contract. Based on these details Westpac determines the Reset Rate to be 0.8850.

The possible outcomes on the Maturity Date are:

- a) if the Trigger Level has not been reached at any time during the Trigger Period and the Market Foreign Exchange Rate is the same as or above the 0.8950 Contract Rate at the Cut-Off Time, you must exchange your USD at the Contract Rate. You will receive:
AUD 111,731.84
(= USD 100,000 / 0.8950)
- b) if the Trigger Level has not been reached during the Trigger Period and the Market Foreign Exchange Rate is below the 0.8950 Contract Rate, you have no obligation to exchange your USD under the ReFC. However, you may choose to separately exchange your USD at the Market Foreign Exchange Rate. For example, if you choose to do this and the AUD/USD Market Foreign Exchange Rate at the time is 0.8500 you will receive:
AUD 117,647.06
(= USD 100,000 / 0.8500)
- c) if the Trigger level has been reached at any time during the Trigger Period, you must exchange your USD at the Reset Rate of 0.8850. You will receive:
AUD 112,994.35
(= USD 100,000 / 0.8850)

How can I change the range of outcomes?

You can change the range of possible outcomes by changing the Contract Rate, the Trigger Level and as a result the corresponding Reset Rate. Once the Contract Rate, the Trigger Level, the Trigger Period and the Reset Rate are agreed the possible outcomes on the Maturity Date can be determined.

When agreeing the details of your ReFC you need to consider that:

- the Contract Rate corresponds to the minimum amount of AUD you will receive for your USD if the Trigger Level is not reached during the Trigger Period.
- if the Trigger Level is reached during the Trigger Period you must exchange USD at the Reset Rate. Depending on how your ReFC is structured, the Reset Rate may be more or less favourable than the Contract Rate. If your Reset Rate is less favourable, that corresponds to the minimum amount of AUD you will receive for your USD. The Contract Rate and/or the Reset Rate will always be set above the Forward Exchange Rate available to you on the trade date.
- where the Trigger Period finishes at the Cut-Off Time, the most favourable exchange rate you can possibly transact at is just above the Trigger Level. If the Trigger Level is reached during the Trigger Period you are obliged to transact at the Reset Rate; if it is not reached you can choose to transact at the prevailing Market Foreign Exchange Rate at maturity.
- where the Trigger Period does not finish at the Cut-Off Time of the ReFC (that is, it finishes before the Cut-Off Time) your ability to benefit from favourable exchange rate movements at the Cut-Off Time will not be capped. This is because the Global Foreign Exchange Rate at the Cut-Off Time may be lower than the Trigger Level but because this occurs outside of the Trigger Period it does not affect your obligations under the ReFC. However, because of the Zero Cost Structure where your Trigger Period finishes before the Cut-Off Time, the combination of your Trigger Level, Contract Rate and Reset Rate will be less favourable to you overall.
- a lower Contract Rate will reduce your exposure to a rising AUD/USD exchange rate. However, because of the Zero Cost Structure, for a given Trigger Period, the Trigger Level and/or the Reset Rate will be higher. A lower Trigger Level will increase the likelihood of the Trigger Level being reached and will reduce the extent to which you can benefit from any favourable exchange rate movements that may occur.
- a higher Contract Rate will increase your exposure to a rising AUD/USD exchange rate. However, because of the Zero Cost Structure, for a given Trigger Period, the Trigger Level and/or the Reset Rate will be lower. A lower Trigger Level will increase the likelihood of the Trigger Level being reached and will increase the extent to which you can benefit from any favourable exchange rate movements that may occur.

General Information.

What information we need from you.

In order to enter into a ReFC with you, we'll need some important details from you. Depending on the legal nature of your business (company, partnership etc) you will be required to provide certain documents and information to us.

Under the Anti-Money Laundering and Counter Terrorism Financing Act 2006 (AML/CTF Laws) it is a requirement that the account holder and all signatories to the account must be identified. So if you're opening an account for the first time this applies to you. It also applies to any account holder or signatory who is not an existing customer.

The identification requirements can be met by completing the Westpac identification procedure which involves providing identity documentation to Westpac. For information on documents required please contact any branch or refer to our website – www.westpac.com.au.

If the account holder or any of the signatories to an account are not identified in terms of the AML/CTF Laws, the account will be blocked for all withdrawals, until they are identified.

If you are an existing customer, an account signatory (or any other cardholder), identification requirements may have previously been satisfied so you don't need to provide it again, unless you are asked to do so by us.

Code of Banking Practice.

The Code of Banking Practice is a self-regulatory code adopted by us and other banks. Its purpose is to set standards of good banking practice for banks to follow when dealing with persons who are, or who may become, individual and small business customers and their guarantors.

If you are an individual or small business customer, each relevant provision of the Code applies to the product described in this PDS. The general descriptive information referred to in the Code (other than information in relation to bank cheques) is set out in this PDS. This includes information about:

- account opening procedures;
- our obligations regarding the confidentiality of your information;
- complaint handling procedures;
- the advisability of you informing us promptly when you are in financial difficulty; and
- the advisability of you reading the terms and conditions applying to a ReFC.

Please let us know if you would like to discuss whether or not the Code will apply to you. Our contact details are set out on page 14.

Financial crimes monitoring.

Westpac is bound by laws that impose regulatory and compliance obligations, including obligations in relation to the prevention of money laundering and the financing of terrorism, which are the AML/CTF Laws. In order for Westpac to meet its regulatory and compliance obligations, we perform certain control and monitoring activities.

Upon entering into any ReFC with Westpac, you agree and provide the following undertakings and agree to indemnify Westpac against any potential loss arising from any breach by you of such undertakings that:

- you are not and will not enter into any agreement with Westpac under an assumed name;
- any funds used by you to enter into an agreement with Westpac have not been derived from or related to any criminal activities;
- any payments received from Westpac will not be used in relation to any criminal activities;
- if we ask, you will provide us with additional information we reasonably require from you for the purposes of meeting our regulatory and compliance obligations, including the obligations under AML/CTF Laws (including information about the source of funds used to settle a ReFC); and
- you and your ReFC with Westpac will not initiate, engage or effect a transaction that may be in breach of Australian law or sanctions (or the law or sanctions of any other country).

You should be aware that:

- we may obtain information about you or any beneficial owner of an interest in an agreement with Westpac from third parties if we believe this is necessary to comply with our regulatory and compliance obligations, including AML/CTF Laws;
- transactions may be delayed, blocked, frozen or refused where we have reasonable grounds to believe that they breach Australian law or sanctions or the law or sanctions of any other country;
- where transactions are delayed, blocked, frozen or refused, Westpac and other members of the Westpac Group are not liable for any loss you suffer (including consequential loss) in connection with a ReFC; and
- where legally obliged to do so, we may disclose information that we hold about you to our related bodies corporate or service providers, other banks, or relevant regulatory and/or law enforcement agencies (whether in or outside of Australia).

Our reporting obligations under FATCA.

We are required to identify certain US persons in order to meet account information reporting requirements under local and international laws.

If you or (where you are an entity) any office bearer (director of a company, partner in a partnership, trustee of a trust, chairman, secretary or treasurer of an association or co-operative) of the entity and/or any individual who holds an interest in the entity of more than 25% (a Controlling Person) are a US citizen or US tax resident, you must telephone 1300 658 194 at the time of entering into a ReFC. When you contact us you will be asked to provide additional information about your US tax status and/or the US tax status of any Controlling Person which will constitute certification of US tax status for the purposes of the application to which the ReFC relates.

Unless you notify us that you and/or any Controlling Person are a US citizen or US tax resident as specified above, entering into a ReFC with us constitutes certification that you and/or any Controlling Person are not a US citizen or US tax resident.

If at any time after entering into a ReFC information in our possession suggests that you and/or any Controlling Person may be a US citizen or US tax resident, you may be contacted to provide further information on your US tax status and/or the US tax status of any Controlling Person. Failure to respond may lead to certain reporting requirements applying to the ReFC.

Telephone conversations.

The terms of a ReFC are usually agreed verbally over the phone or electronically over an on-line system. Once we have reached an agreement, both you and Westpac are bound by the terms of the ReFC.

Conversations with our dealing room and settlement departments are recorded. This is standard market practice. We do this to make sure that we have complete records of the details of all transactions. Recorded conversations are retained for a limited period and are usually used where there is a dispute and for staff training and monitoring purposes.

You will need to advise our dealer if you do not wish to be recorded. However, we will not enter into any transaction over the telephone unless the conversation is recorded.

Taxation.

Taxation law is complex and its application to this product will depend on your particular circumstances. We make no claim that this product will provide a beneficial or appropriate tax outcome for you. When determining whether this product is suitable for your circumstances, you should consider the impact it will have on your own taxation position and seek professional advice on the tax implications it may have for you.

This document has been produced for use by Australian tax residents only. If you are not a resident of Australia for tax purposes and have entered into a ReFC, you may be required to withhold tax on payments you make. If you are required to withhold an amount of tax on any payments you make as a non-resident, you are liable to gross up that payment such that we receive all amounts clear of any tax.

We collect personal information from you to process your application, provide you with your product or service, and manage your product or service. We may also use your information to comply with legislative or regulatory requirements in any jurisdiction, prevent fraud, crime or other activity that may cause harm in relation to our products or services and help us run our business. We may also use your information to tell you about products or services we think may interest you.

By using our products or services, you consent to these disclosures.
