Foreign Currency Accounts at a glance.

	SUMMARY.
Issuer.	Westpac Banking Corporation ('Westpac', 'we' or 'us').
Description.	A Foreign Currency Account is a transaction account for foreign currencies. It can be used to pay or receive foreign currency without having to convert it to Australian dollars. Foreign Currency Accounts are available in most major currencies. Those foreign currencies are set out in the table on page [14] of this document.
Minimum account balance.	There is no minimum amount required to open a Foreign Currency Account. However, you must retain a positive balance in your Foreign Currency Account at all times, except where there is an agreed overdraft limit on your account. We recommend that you monitor your account balance, and make necessary adjustments to avoid a negative balance.
Interest.	If you have a positive balance in your Foreign Currency Account, you may earn interest on that amount. A tiered interest rate structure applies to Foreign Currency Accounts. See the section titled "Interest rates" on page [6] for more information.
Fees and charges.	An Account Maintenance Fee applies to Foreign Currency Accounts. Westpac may also charge a fee for providing additional account statements. Dishonour fees may also be payable where a debit item is dishonoured for any reason. See the section titled "Fees and Charges" on page [5] for more information.
Key benefits.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Possible protection against unfavourable foreign exchange rate movements over time • You can make and receive payments in another currency without having to convert them to Australian dollars • Foreign Currency Accounts are available in a wide range of currencies • You can manage your transactional requirements for a foreign currency
Key risks.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • There are currency risks associated with an adverse movement in the Australian dollar that may change the value of the Australian dollar equivalent of your foreign currency account. The value of the foreign currency balance in your account relative to the Australian dollar may mean that the amount you withdraw from your Foreign Currency Account when converted to Australian currency may be less than the amount of Australian currency you originally held
Suitability.	A Foreign Currency Account may be suitable if you have cash flows in a foreign currency or need to hold a foreign currency balance. A Foreign Currency Account should not be used to speculate on foreign currencies or to conduct frequent trading of foreign currencies. A Foreign Currency Account is not an account to assist with travel needs. It cannot be linked to a Travel Money Card and you cannot access your Foreign Currency Account through an ATM, either within Australia or overseas. Foreign notes and coin cannot be withdrawn or deposited into the Foreign Currency Account.

Fees and charges.

Fees and charges are converted to the foreign currency of the Foreign Currency Account using Westpac's current exchange rates. They are charged to your Foreign Currency Account or another Westpac bank account in the same currency. Alternatively, you may pay fees and charges separately in Australian dollars. These will be debited to an Australian dollar Westpac account in the same name as the Foreign Currency Account.

To make an outward telegraphic transfer from your Foreign Currency Account using Westpac Live Online Banking you are required to have an eligible Australian dollar transaction account with Westpac containing a sufficient balance to pay the applicable telegraphic transfer fees. You will not be able to proceed with the transaction unless this requirement is satisfied.

An Account Maintenance Fee applies to Foreign Currency Accounts. The amount of this fee depends on the average monthly balance of the Foreign Currency Account and is charged in arrears on the first business day of the following month. To determine the fee, Westpac calculates the average monthly foreign currency balance then calculates the Australian dollar equivalent using Westpac's current exchange rates. The following Account Maintenance Fees apply.

AVERAGE MONTHLY BALANCE (AUSTRALIAN DOLLAR EQUIVALENT).	FEE (IN AUSTRALIAN DOLLARS).
$0 to $99,999.99	$5
$100,000 and over	Nil

Westpac may charge a fee for providing additional account statements. The fees are:

- $7.50 per page for each duplicate account statement.

Fees for additional statements are payable at the time the event occurs or when the service is provided.

Your Foreign Currency Account is subject to any government taxes and duties. There are currently no government taxes and duties on withdrawals and deposits to your Foreign Currency Account. However, withholding tax may be payable (please refer to the Tax File Numbers and Non-resident withholding tax sections for further information).

There are fees and charges for the services that are commonly used in conjunction with Foreign Currency Accounts. These fees are payable for a banking service that is not related to your Account. The amounts are current as at the effective date of this document but are subject to change without notice.

Contact Westpac on 132 032 for more information about our fees for other banking services.

These include:

outward telegraphic transfers (via Westpac Live Online Banking)	$20*
outward telegraphic transfers (via branch/over-the-counter)	$32*
all inward telegraphic transfers	$12*
issue of foreign currency draft	$28

*These fees apply whether or not the telegraphic transfer is in Australian dollars or a foreign currency, and whether or not it is to or from a party overseas.

For all other International fees please see the Standard Fees for International Products & Services at westpac.com.au/docs/pdf/bb/International-Service-Fees-0811.pdf

Westpac may decide not to charge a fee that we are otherwise entitled to charge. Any failure by Westpac to charge a fee does not constitute a waiver of that fee or the right to charge that fee.

Key benefits.

- Foreign Currency Accounts allow you to hold balances in a foreign currency. This can potentially provide you with protection against unfavourable foreign exchange movements over time. This may assist you in managing your foreign currency exposures.
- Foreign Currency Accounts are available in a range of currencies. For a full list of available currencies refer to page 14 of this document.
- Apart from uncleared drafts and cheques, you may initiate a request to withdraw your money at any time, as long as you provided an acceptable form of identification when opening the account.

Key risks.

- There are currency risks associated with an adverse movement in the Australian dollar that may change the value of the Australian dollar equivalent of your foreign currency account.
- Interest rate risk – the interest rate that is applied on your Foreign Currency Account is a variable interest rate determined by Westpac, consequently if the interest rate for your foreign currency falls your interest income will reduce.

Interest Rates.

Foreign Currency account interest rates are available at www.westpac.com.au/business-banking/international-trade/international-rates-tools/bbit-international-rates/ or through your Westpac representative or from any Westpac branch. These rates are subject to change.

Westpac calculates interest using a split balance credit interest rate. Westpac does not pay interest for balances within the First Balance Tier. Different interest rates apply for balances within the Second and Third Balance Tiers. No interest is paid on the portion of the account balance within the First Balance Tier irrespective of the total account balance.

For example, if you have a balance of Great British Pounds (GBP) 50,000 in your Foreign Currency Account, interest would be calculated as follows:

Example of interest rates

(rates are used for example purposes only)

Balance Tier 1: GBP 0 to 3,000	0.00% p.a.
Balance Tier 2: GBP 3,000.01 to 30,000	3.00% p.a.
Balance Tier 2: Balance over GBP 30,000	3.75% p.a.

In this example, deposit interest will not be paid on the first GBP 3,000 but will be paid at 3.00% p.a. on the balance over GBP 3,000 and up to and including GBP 30,000 and at 3.75% p.a. on the balance over GBP 30,000.

Credit Interest and debit Interest are calculated using the daily closing balance of your account using this formula:

$$\frac{(\text{Daily closing Balance} \times \text{Interest Rate})}{365 \text{ or } 360 \text{ days}^*}$$

Applying this formula to the above example, the amount of interest for a day would be calculated as follows:

$$\frac{[3,000 \times 0.00\% + (30,000 - 3,000) \times 3.00\% + (50,000 - 30,000) \times 3.75\%]}{365}$$

*Interest will be calculated on either a 360 or 365 day basis as per the table on Page [14] 'Foreign currencies available'.

Westpac may approve a request to link a separate overdraft to your Foreign Currency Account in its discretion. Unless this has occurred, you must keep your Foreign Currency Account in a positive balance. If we allow your account to be overdrawn for any reason, any negative balance will be treated as an 'unarranged overdraft', and a separate credit facility from your Foreign Currency Account, and you may be charged a debit balance interest rate using the Westpac Unarranged Lending Rate. The current rate is available from our website westpac.com.au

Daily closing balances on or after the last business day of a month, but before the end of that calendar month, are not included in the interest calculation for that month. They are included in the interest calculation for the following month.

Opening an account.

Opening an account.

Foreign Currency Accounts are available for both individual and business customers. Customers must have an Australian address and currently reside in Australia. Individuals must be at least 18 years of age.

You can apply to open a Foreign Currency Account at any Westpac branch in Australia or online. For certain currencies, a Foreign Currency Account can only be opened in a Westpac branch.

If opening your Account online, we ask that you review Westpac's online identity verification terms, available at www.westpac.com.au/personal-banking/bank-accounts/transaction/choice/online-identity-verification.

To open a Foreign Currency Account we will need your name, address and your occupation. You may also need to supply the following information if you are a business:

- business name, address and industry details
- the name you wish the account to be in
- the names and residential addresses of all people who will operate the account (signatories)
- a copy of the business or company registration
- details of either the directors, owners or partners of the business, including details of all other account signatories.

Westpac may complete a company search to verify this information. A fee will be charged for this service.

What we need from you.

To open any new Westpac account(s) we'll need some important details from you. Depending on the legal nature of your business (company, partnership etc.) you will be required to provide certain documents and information to the Bank.

If this is your first account with us:

Under the Anti-Money Laundering and Counter Terrorism Financing Act 2006 it is a requirement that the account holder and all signatories to the account must be identified. So if you're opening an account for the first time this applies to you. It also applies to any account holder or signatory who is not an existing customer.

The identification requirements can be met by completing the Westpac Customer Identification Procedure which involves providing identity documentation to the Bank. For information on documents required under Westpac's Customer Identification Standards please contact any branch or refer to our website – westpac.com.au/aml.

If the account holder or any of the signatories to an account are not identified in terms of the Act, the account will be blocked for all withdrawals, until they are identified.

If you are an existing customer or an account signatory identification requirements may have previously been satisfied so you will only need to provide it again if we ask you.

If you wish to make outward telegraphic transfers from your Foreign Currency Account and you do not already hold an eligible Australian dollar transaction account with Westpac, you will be required to open one at the same time you open your Foreign Currency Account. This is for the purpose of paying applicable telegraphic transfer fees. You will not be able to make telegraphic transfer transactions unless this requirement is satisfied.

Opening a joint account.

You can open a Foreign Currency Account in joint names and authorise the signatories to operate the account jointly (two or more signatories must act together) or severally (signatories can act individually). You can change this arrangement at any time simply by signing a new account authority. You can also permit another person to operate your Foreign Currency Account by completing the appropriate form. You can withdraw this authority at any time.

It is important to understand what your responsibilities are before undertaking any joint financial commitment. Always consider that:

- if a Foreign Currency Account is held in joint names and an account holder dies, we may treat the credit balance in the Foreign Currency Account as owing to the surviving account holder(s); and
- if one (or more) of the joint account holders overdraws the account, each joint account holder may be liable for payment of all or any part of the amount overdrawn

Welcome Letter.

Once your account has been opened Westpac will send a welcome letter (which will be received via email for those customers who open their account online) with the details of your Foreign Currency Account.

Operating your account.

You can get up-to-date information on your account at any time through the branch where your account is held. Customers who have access to Corporate Online or Westpac Live Online Banking can arrange for access to their Foreign Currency Account information, including the Foreign Currency Account balance, transaction details, accrued interest and historical information. However there may be additional fees for selected services. Refer to the relevant online service terms and conditions for details.

There are several options for paying money into your Foreign Currency Account; however we will not accept foreign currency cash at any time. Deposits may be made by transfer from an existing Westpac bank account, by way of a foreign currency draft or cheque or by telegraphic transfer. Deposits can be made via any Westpac branch. There is currently no maximum amount that can be deposited into a Foreign Currency Account. However we reserve the right to set a maximum amount at any time with immediate effect. Apart from uncleared drafts and cheques, your money is held for whenever you need it.

Westpac will not process inward or outward payments for a Foreign Currency Account when it is:

- outside of the country/currency cut-off time
- a day on which commercial banks are closed for business in Sydney
- a day on which commercial banks are closed for business in the United States (or any relevant state within the United States). This is applicable for all foreign currencies, not just US dollars.
- a day on which commercial banks are closed for business in any other overseas location relevant to the currency involved

A request to initiate a transaction within these times will instead be processed on the next available business day.

The money you withdraw will not be paid to you in foreign currency cash. Nor is it possible to withdraw foreign currency cash from an ATM. It can be paid in any of the following ways:

- Westpac will undertake a separate foreign exchange transaction to convert the amount to Australian dollars (using Westpac's current exchange rates) and deposit those funds into another Westpac account in the same name as the Foreign Currency Account (no fee is charged but we may apply a spread to the interest rate quoted);

- the amount can be paid using a foreign currency draft, telegraphic transfer or bank cheque. Westpac charges a fee for these additional services (details of these fees are available on request);
- the amount can be transferred to another Westpac Foreign Currency Account (in the same name and currency as the Foreign Currency Account with no fees applying).

We may at our discretion honour a payment or otherwise permit your account to be overdrawn. Fees may apply in such circumstances. Permitting a transaction which causes an overdraft does not mean that we agree to provide you with an overdraft facility, but will constitute a separate credit facility you may be charged a debit balance interest rate using the Westpac Unarranged Lending Rate (rate is available from our website westpac.com.au). We may top-up an overdrawn account with funds in another account you hold with us, or place a stop on your account to prevent further withdraws.

Customers who have access to Corporate Online or Westpac Live Online Banking can also use it to transfer funds between accounts in the same currency and, to or from their Australian dollar bank accounts, plus send telegraphic transfers in the same currency or in Australian dollars to an overseas bank (fees apply for telegraphic transfers).

Chequebooks and card access are not available on Foreign Currency Accounts. You can give deposit and withdrawal instructions to your local branch by completing a deposit/withdrawal form or by letter.

The proceeds of foreign currency drafts or cheques will be credited to your Foreign Currency Account once cleared by the overseas bank (a process which can in some cases take more than 4 weeks). Westpac may, in its absolute discretion and subject to applicable internal approvals being given, credit your Foreign Currency Account with the amount of the foreign currency draft or cheque before clearance by the overseas bank, 7 business days after the item is lodged with Westpac.

In all cases, if a draft or cheque is subsequently dishonoured, Westpac will debit your Foreign Currency Account for the amount of the dishonoured item together with a dishonour fee and any costs, charges and expenses we have incurred.

Organising an overdraft.

An overdraft is a line of credit on your Foreign Currency Account, and may be available if you meet our standard credit assessment criteria. You should visit your local Westpac branch or contact your Westpac Representative for more information.

Account statements.

Westpac will issue you a statement at the intervals you have nominated unless we are unable, after taking reasonable steps, to locate you.

As an alternative to receiving paper statements in the mail, electronic statements and other important information on your Foreign Currency Account may be given via Westpac Live Online Banking (other than Corporate Online) together with an email notifying you when the statement is available. You may agree or consent to electronic statements, or Westpac may notify you that statements will be made available electronically instead of by mail. To obtain electronic statements you must be registered for Westpac Live Online Banking, supply Westpac with a valid email address and satisfy any other applicable eligibility criteria. You can opt-out of electronic statements at any time via Westpac Live Online Banking, in-branch or through Westpac's call centre.

The statement is designed to clearly show the transactions you have made.

Some transactions may not appear on the statement you receive in the mail, because the statement may have been issued before the transaction was processed. These are called unstatemented transactions and you can find up-to-date details about them by visiting any Westpac branch. If your account is inactive for three months or more, Westpac may at its discretion change your account statement cycle to either quarterly or six monthly.

Please be advised that:

- all entries on statements should be checked carefully and any apparent or possible unauthorised transaction promptly reported to Westpac.
- It will assist any claim you may need to make regarding any lack of authority, including forgery, or any other discrepancy if you notify Westpac within three months of receiving your statement of account, if there is any cheque noted on your statement which we have paid but you did not authorise, or if any other amount has been debited to your Account without your authority.

If you need additional copies of your statement or would like access to information on your transactions, contact your Westpac Representative or visit your local branch. Westpac may charge a fee for providing additional account statements.

If, for any reason, your contact details or the account signatories change, you must notify your Westpac as soon as possible. Unless you have given us adequate prior notification of changes to contact details or other account information, Westpac cannot be held responsible for any resulting errors or losses provided that any errors or losses are not caused by any fraud, wilful misconduct or negligence on the part of Westpac or any of its employees, agents or subcontractors.

Taxation.

Interest earned on your Foreign Currency Account may be taxable. Taxation law is complex and its application will depend on a person's individual circumstances. When determining whether or not this product is suitable for you, you should consider the impact it will have on your own taxation position and seek professional advice on the tax implications it may have for you.

When you open a Foreign Currency Account, you may wish to provide your Tax File Number ('TFN'), your Australian Business Number ('ABN') or an exemption reason. This is because accounts that earn interest are subject to the Pay- As-You-Go ('PAYG') withholding rules.

- If the investment is made in the course of an enterprise (that is, business activities), you may provide an ABN as an alternative to your TFN.
- For joint accounts, the Australian Taxation Office (ATO) requires a minimum of two TFNs or ABNs (one each) from the account holders.
- If a formal trust is established and a trustee makes the investment, the trustee may quote the TFN of the trust.

Providing us with your TFN or ABN is advisory but not compulsory. If you are an Australian resident and do not provide us with your TFN, ABN or exemption reason, we are required to deduct withholding tax at the highest marginal tax rate plus any levies imposed by the Australian Government from time to time from the interest and remit the withheld amount to the Australian Taxation Office.

If you are not an Australian resident, Westpac must withhold non-resident withholding tax from interest.

Westpac is required to report details of income earned, withholding tax deducted and TFNs quoted on an account, to the Australian Taxation Office annually. The collection of TFNs and their use and disclosure are strictly regulated by the Privacy Act (1988).

Goods and Services Tax.

Where Westpac is liable to pay Goods and Services Tax (GST) or any similar tax on a supply made in connection with this product/service, then you agree to pay an additional amount equal to the consideration payable for the supply multiplied by the prevailing GST rate and any foreign currency conversion fees applicable.

Closing an account.

You can close your Foreign Currency Account at any time by completing a 'Foreign Currency Accounts – Request for Account Closure' form which can be obtained at any Westpac branch or through your Westpac Representative.

When we close your Foreign Currency Account, we will pay you the net credit balance of your account. The net credit balance is the credit balance plus any deposit interest, less any accrued fees and government charges up to the closing date. As with any other withdrawal, Westpac will not pay funds in foreign currency cash when a Foreign Currency Account is closed. Funds will be paid using one of the methods described in the section headed Operating your account.

Westpac may close your account due to unsatisfactory conduct or for any other reason we deem appropriate, such as an account being used for an illegal purpose. Westpac may also close an account if the account becomes inactive. An account becomes inactive if you do not make any deposits and/or withdrawals during a continuous six-month period. If we close your account, we will notify you in writing at the address shown on our records, and if appropriate will send you the net credit balance of your account.

We reserve the right to cease to offer Foreign Currency Accounts for any particular currency, for example because of market disruption to that currency, foreign government exchange controls, or liquidity reasons. We will notify you of our intention to cease to offer a particular currency and provide you a timeframe to make alternative arrangements and close the account. If you do not respond within the time specified in the notice, we may close your Account and convert the foreign currency into Australian dollars at the prevailing exchange rate on the day.

Account combination.

Westpac has the right to combine your Foreign Currency Account with any other Westpac account you hold, such as a loan or credit account without your prior consent. That is, we can transfer sufficient money from your Foreign Currency Account to clear any debt you owe us in other loan or deposit accounts. If we do this, the balance of your Foreign Currency Account will reduce by the amount used for this purpose. You agree that you may not set off any amounts we owe you (for example credit balances in your accounts) against amounts you owe us.

If we exercise our right to combine accounts, we will notify you promptly in writing at the postal or electronic address shown in our records.

Assignment.

You may not at any time assign any right, title or interest in or to your Foreign Currency Account without Westpac's prior written consent.

Westpac may assign any of its rights or benefits under these terms and conditions without your prior consent. Westpac may disclose information about you relevant to those rights or benefits for that purpose.

Changes to terms and conditions.

We may change the terms and conditions of your account. We will always let you know if, for any reason, the terms and conditions of your account change.

We will notify you in writing about most changes, including the introduction of a new fee or charge, varying the minimum balance, or the method by which interest is calculated. The notice will be sent to your address, as shown on our records. However, such notice will not be given in the case where you cannot reasonably be located.

Details of changes in interest rates are available on our website www.westpac.com.au/business-banking/international-trade/international-rates-tools/bbit-international-rates or by contacting your Westpac Representative or by visiting any branch. Where the account is earning interest, interest rates are also printed on account statements.

In the case of a new fee or increase to a fee, we will notify you at least 30 days before the change takes effect. Otherwise variations of an existing fee may be notified to you before the day on which the change becomes effective.

Notification may be by advertisement in the national or local media or in writing.

Other changes, including changes in government fees and charges, may be notified to you by advertisement in the national or local media or in writing, before the day on which the change becomes effective (unless the change has already been publicised by a government, government agency or representative body). However, advance notice may not be given when a change is due to an immediate need to restore or maintain the security of our systems or of individual accounts.

Provided you agree, we may notify you of any of the above types of changes either by electronic device or communication (such as email), or by making particulars of changes available at our website – www.westpac.com.au. You may, at any time, vary the electronic device or communication method you have nominated, or terminate your agreement to allow us to notify you through any electronic method.

If any term or condition is found to be void or unenforceable on grounds of unfairness or any other reason, the remaining terms and conditions will continue to apply to the extent possible as if the void or unenforceable term or condition is removed.

Telephone conversations.

Conversations about your Foreign Currency Account may be recorded. This is standard market practice. We do this to make sure that we have complete records of the details of all transactions. Recorded conversations are retained for a limited period and may be used where there is a dispute or for staff monitoring purposes.

You will need to advise at the start of the call if you do not wish to be recorded. However, we will not enter into any transaction over the telephone unless the conversation is recorded.

Code of Banking Practice compliance.

This is a self-regulatory Code adopted by us and other banks. Its purpose is to set standards of good banking practice for banks to follow when dealing with persons who are, or who may become, their individual and small business customers and their guarantors. We actively comply with this Code.

Each relevant provision of the Code applies to the banking products and services described in this document. Information is set out in this document about:

- account opening procedures;
- our obligations regarding the confidentiality of your information;
- complaint handling procedures;
- bank cheques;
- the advisability of you informing us promptly when you are in financial difficulty; and
- the advisability of you reading the terms and conditions applying to the relevant banking service.

The ePayments Code.

The ePayments Code governs certain electronic payments to or from your account where you are an individual. We will comply with this code where it applies.

What happens if your details change?

If your address or other relevant details change, please notify us as soon as possible. This can be done easily by calling Telephone Banking, Westpac Live Online Banking or at any Westpac Branch or In-store.

If the account signatories change, please notify us as soon as possible by visiting any of our branches.

Please note that unless you have given us adequate prior notification of account changes, we cannot be held responsible for any resulting errors or losses.

Privacy and Confidentiality.

Confidentiality.

The Bank has a general duty of confidentiality towards you, except in the following circumstances:

- where disclosure is compelled by law;
- where there is a duty to the public to disclose;
- where the interests of the Bank require disclosure;
- where disclosure is made with your express or implied consent.

Privacy Statement.

In order to process your application for a product or service for the organisation of which you are a representative or signatory, or to provide or manage the provision of that product or service, we may collect personal information about you from you or that organisation. We may also use your personal information to comply with legislative or regulatory requirements in any jurisdiction, prevent fraud, crime or other activity that may cause harm in relation to our products or services and help us run our business.

If you do not provide all the information we request, we may need to reject the application or we may no longer be able to provide that product or service.

Recommending banking solutions that suit your needs.

This document has been designed to help you choose the right accounts. If we have a discussion based on your individual needs and circumstances, we are able to recommend a product. Please be assured that these recommendations are given in the best interests of our customers.

Advice provided by our staff is provided to you on behalf of Westpac Banking Corporation. It is important that the information our customers provide to us is accurate as it is this information which we rely upon in providing our recommendations. If the information you have provided is inaccurate or incomplete, you should consider the appropriateness of the advice in regards to your personal circumstances.

Please note that when selecting, retaining or realising investments relating to our deposit accounts, we do not take into account labour standards or environmental, social or ethical considerations.

Factors that may influence our advice.

Staff are paid a combination of salary and superannuation but may also become entitled to other benefits as a result of customers acquiring products through them. These other benefits may include cash incentive programs where staff may be eligible for a cash bonus based on the performance of their team and their own performance for achieving or exceeding a sales target. The performance requirements include a variety of key behaviours and objectives, such as the quality of their customer service and level of product sales made by them and by other areas of the business as a result of their referrals.

The amount of the bonus will be based on the extent to which they have exceeded their objectives, their general behaviour, the performance of their business unit and their job classification.

Staff may also be entitled to receive other benefits from incentive and promotional programs. These vary from small non-monetary rewards such as movie tickets, hampers and dinners, to more valuable benefits such as flight and accommodation packages.

Not a Protected Account.

The Foreign Currency Account is not a “protected account” under the Banking Act 1959 with the result that the priority available to protected accounts under section 13A(3) (c) of the Banking Act will not apply to Foreign Currency Accounts.
